

An Update from Bryan Essary, Senior Warden
May 3, 2010

By now, most of you probably know that St. George's was dealt quite a blow during the weekend floods. We currently are focusing on drying out the church, identifying items in need of repair or replacement, and engaging in general clean-up. Crews have been working around the clock to get the clean-up underway and professional remediation firms have been engaged to get these tasks done properly and quickly.

We are so grateful for the many offers to help in this endeavor, but there are numerous conditions to be remedied solely by the professional firms.

We presently are working to create a way to exchange information about the clean-up process and volunteer needs. This may take shape through our current website, or another mode such as Facebook, but we will keep you posted as we move forward.

Your volunteer help will certainly be needed very soon! Please look for further updates and information on ways you can help.

Many thanks,
Bryan Essary
Senior Warden
